

Welcome:

View Panel Discussion Session

Much of the information on this page is clickable. For example, clicking on a person's name will display all of that person's participations in the program. Author names preceded by an asterisk * were designated as presenting authors during the submission process.

Anticipating Madam President

Sponsor:

Political Communication Division

Schedule Information:

Scheduled Time: Sat, Nov 18 - 2:00pm - 3:15pm Building/Room: Convention Center / Room 102 A
Title Displayed in Event Calendar: Anticipating Madame President

Session Participants:

Chair: Shannon L. Holland (University Nebraska at Omaha)

Participant: Kristina Sheeler (Indiana Univ-Purdue Univ, Indianapolis)

Participant: Amanda Leigh Brozana (University of Alabama, College of Communication and Information Science)

Respondent: Vanessa Beasley (University of Georgia)

Running Like a Woman: A Rhetorical Profile of Women as U.S. Presidential Candidates

*Karrin Anderson (Colorado State University), Kristina Sheeler (Indiana Univ-Purdue Univ, Indianapolis)

Obstacles and Opportunities for Women and the American Presidency

*Nichola Gutgold (Penn State Univ-Berks Lehigh Valley)

Issues, Biography, and Chaff: Substantive Coverage of Men and Women Candidates for President

*Erika Falk (Johns Hopkins Univ)

Imagining the Female President: 'Commander-in-Chief' and the White House Project"

*Janis Edwards (University of Alabama)

Not Running, Yet Called Upon to Run: The Rhetoric of the 'Draft Condi' Movement

*Rebecca Watts (Stetson)

Abstract:

Presidential campaigns present recurring sites for connection with American identity and action over specific issues and personalities. As we prepare for the 2008 campaign, it is vital to attend to current discourses on the prospects for a woman president. This panel approaches the issue by looking at past histories, media response, and contemporary case studies that relate to the anticipation of a viable, elected female presence in the Oval Office.

©2006 All Academic, Inc.